THURSDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1863.

THE STANDARD ABROAD.

Esquina, Nov. 26, 1863.

On arriving at Paraná yesterday morning, our steamer was boarded by the agent, Mr. Lorenzo Myers, a veteran Irishman of 73 summers, resident in this country since the year of independence (1816). He is a hale old man, seemingly no more than 50 years, and is reported the most active individual in this town or province. He employs men on the blocks adjoining San Miguel in Buenos Ayres were fenced in with adobe trees (tunas), and has been an eyewitness of the numberless vicissitudes of the republic during the last half century.

We had not much cargo for Paraná but some passengers, of whom was Sor. Pondal, whose name was identified with the bonds of the late National Government, and who is now making a tour of inspection of the various Custom-houses, for he holds a fiscal appointment at Buenos Ayres. There was also an Italian gentleman, going to Sta. Fe, a dour little group felt the loss of too much pleasant companions. The steamer which used to ply nerosa & Paraná has been stopped, and passengers are obliged to confide themselves to little sailing-boats. A number of islands intervene, completely shutting out all view of the time-honored city of Sta. Fe, remarkable for its churches, its gradual and progressing destruction by the current of the river, and its proximity to the Gran Chaco and Rio Salado.

D. Pascual Rosas, ex-Governor of Sta. Fe, came on board, but, as I was writing to my cotton friend, Sor Calvo, and to the 'Standard,' I had not time to take any notice of him. I sent Calderon six pamphlets, and promised to leave the rest at Rosario, for the next voyage of the Esmeralda. We left Paraná at ten a.m., being forced to make a circuit of about two miles, to avoid the bank which has already almost closed up that port.

Viewed from the opposite side, Paraná presents a respectable appearance, edged by a cliff-terrace of about 20 feet, which slopes down in front. In the crowd of white washed buildings we distinguish the Church of Jesus, the Cabildo, Casa de la Plaza, and the top of another in the out-skirts, nearly finished. Not a clear day the turrets of Sta. Fe may be descried from hence, but I do not know how many leagues it is distant.

The river now washes the banks of Entre Rios, and on our right is a vast prairie, also, on whose islands there is little timber, but a strong luxuriant grass, which is sold in Paraná for fodder. There is a marked improvement in the scenery; and a successful system of cultivation on the right, the eye wanders over a rich champaign country, presenting much the idea of an English park or demesne. Groups of orchards, with oaks, break the shades of a verdant vegetation, and Nature has out-done the inane work of a landscape gardener in the rich variation of tints and tones, the graceful outlines of hill and vale, the stately forms of pine and algarroba, which every moment present themselves to the observer. Sometimes it suggests a gloomy reflection to the contrast, but the lovers of romance and Nature should see how one thing enhanced.

Five leagues from Paraná we sighted a cluster of ranchos, called "The Saladillos," the owners of which usually furnish their fuel for locomotive purposes by, during this little settlement, which is occupied in cutting timber, is the famous colony of Villa Urquiza, of whose cotton fields I have already spoken a little further we meet several boats crossing over to Sta. Fe, say, of them taking in now a horse, or one laden alone is visible. These animals swim much better than in Europe, and it will be remembered that Urquiza has several times passed at the Diamante at a army of cavalry, for which Hannibal would have required rafts or bridges.

At 2 we passed Diamante at midnight (24th) I had no proper unity of seeing the locality, but am told that the place is now deserted, the but inhabitant, was Italian pulpero, having carried away last week, in a cart, all his pesetas and bachanatian appendages. There are several ancient houses abandoned to the owls and bisachos.

Two hours' sail beyond Villa Urquiza brings us to a place called Escobillas, where we perceive an estancia once almost surrounded by trees. Next appears a lonely hut commanding a grand view of the Buenos Ayres, in a adjuncts of a cattle corral and small pen show that animals are here embarked for the salted provinces.

I had forgotten to mention the spleen did establishment of Messrs. Schozan, a few miles above Paraná, remarkable as a great steam-power. There is not, however, much sign of activity, and I learn that the house made a bad speculation, having entered in Bank shares, which although cheaper caused a loss yielding in proportion to those of E. Rios as to 5.

At Cerrito is the fine estancia of an Englishman, Mr. Henry Vidal, who lives here almost shut out from the rest of the world divisus orbe Britannico. Should the family ever see fit to look up, as if cheered by the sight of the Union Jack, which floated astern. Here it was that during the insurrection of Paz and Lavalle against Rosas, the Corrientine army under General Ferré (now senator to Congress) abandoned the Federalist cause, and returned to find to Corrientes, owing to local dissensions in that province.

The cliffs again approach the water, but the soil consists of loose, we have argillaceous deposits, of red and purple colors, which are said to be very valuable for clay, though not employed to use, as no one seems to interest himself in the speculation. Happily there is no jealous guardian of woods and timber among the people, and all under island are loading timber, which is bad for the cutting. These wood cutters are Italians who trade with Buenos Ayres, and the Genoese may be said to monopolize the small traffic of this river.

The river now breaks into a variety of channels, and the pilot has to take soundings, for the water is so low that our captain thinks the Paraguay steamer may have pronounced impossible to pass, although she ought to be in Buenos Ayres. We cannot see the Gran Chaco, which even when exposed to the numerous islands, teeming with tigers and small crocodiles; the latter are called 'caymon,' and resemble what naturalists term the iguana.

The weather was very hot all day notwithstanding so showers in the morning, and the thermometer (we have no barometer) ranged at 8 in the shade at 10 to 95 Fahr. At sunset a heavy storm was brewing ahead of us, but when the moon rose it was expected that the night was fine and slightly sultry.

When I wrote my last letter (11 pm.) we were within a few leagues of La Paz, and I hope to be there in about 12 hours. I sleep th t the whistle of the steamer announcing there (3 a.m.) did not awaken me; I felt some one tapping me on the shoulder, and got up to find Captain Mc Greenway, who had come on board for his newspapers, and to exchange the midnight. I could only distinguish a white-washed house, and was told that the struggling hamlet was the village of Arroyo. Mr. G. told us the Paraguay steamer had passed, but that he was mistaken. I gave him a letter for the next steamer, which I hope will safely reach the 'Standard' office. We left La Paz at 3 30 am., and are now in sight of Esquina, where we may meet the Paraguay steamer. The scenery, or the part of the stream I will postpone for another chapter.

THE BANK AGAIN

It is generally admitted that the present season is the last out period of the year with us, that in the 6 months paper money is in demand to pay for the only Buenos Ayrean export worthy of note—wool. That specie is a drug in our market, and the unfortunate paper money becomes now temporarily resuscitated. Notwithstanding these admitted facts, the Casa de oneda thinks proper to cheapen money, and flood our market with specie and paper.

Perhaps there are many who consider that when business is brisk, and money in demand, it should be cheapened, but we, without assuming much financial experience, think otherwise, and opine that the English plan is the safest, when money is locked fast, and business active hold in the reins to counteract speculation.

Argentine financiers, ill, no doubt, urge that the cheapening of money gives more buyers to wool, more activity in our plazas; but we caution all against this temporary sunshine. With the same facility with which the Bank reduced its rate to-day, it can raise it to-morrow, refuse to renew bills, and thus force the purchasers of wool on bank capital into absolute bankruptcy. We take liberty, therefore, of differing with the Bank Directors, and consider that in reducing its rate of interest, while money in the market is positively scarce, as a most dangerous precedent.

It is not extraordinary, that in a distant city as Buenos Ayres, in a country where capital is confessedly scarce, that money should positively be cheaper, and consequently at less interest, than in the richest capitals of Europe?

Does it not show the hollow state of our financial affairs; the fact that in the market, depreciated paper money commands more than three times the interest which Bank shares will?

We are told that the deposits in the Casa de Moneda are at present very heavy, and that the Bank vaults are so filled with paper money, that they will contain no more; that notwithstanding the great liberality of the Bank, they cannot invest all their money. This goes to show either of two things. That is to say, that either the actual amount of paper money in circulation is too great for the necessities of business, or that, owing to the rules of the Bank, borrowers prefer going elsewhere to borrow money.

Candidly speaking, we opine the latter, and feel convinced that even though the Casa de Moneda was to put down 61 cents at 2 per cent. per annum, the majority of the merchants would prefer to deal elsewhere.

There can be no doubt that the object of the present change is to wage war with the private banks and banking brokers. But the measure is unwise and unfair, inasmuch as it will induce many to imagine, that if money was less cheap, would never think of so doing.

The Bank, if it wants to do safe business, must go with the money market, and conform its rates thereto.

Paper money is worth 14 or 15 per cent. per annum in the city, while the Bank only allows 5 per cent. per annum. This is a strange anomaly, and calculated to effect serious injury, a the probability is, if the present disparity—the singular course which they have adopted in a few months, the Bank will be continuing its discounts, and paying 12 per cent. per annum, to depositors, whilst in the market it will be superabundant, and hardly worth 5 per cent. per month.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The rain, the rain, the rain! Thank Heavens, it has rained at last. Tuesday evening, and Tuesday night, what deli cious rain! Talk of gobi ounces and dirty paper dollars, splendid estancias and fine houses, the sun on Tuesday night was worth them all put together; the three banks combined what not they after all in comparison to the showers on Tuesday. Almost every arroyo in the camp was dry, we all began to get nervous; but the Alcalophy was not prepared. We hope that the last has not put an end to town; in fact we have a strong conviction that it will be raised all through the camp. Parts from near the Villa Lezan called at our office to day, and state that it rained all Tuesday night out there.

General Gelly and Obes has gone over to Martin Garcia to inspect the fortifications and a new battery there. Several engineers are being employed, some forty cannons will be mounted. People are naturally anxious to know what all this fuss is about. The Argentine Metternich, Marmol, could possibly explain better than any one else, but although we called by every one in Montevideo, there is no getting one word from him.

We re ret very much to see that some indi-crest foreigner has written home a letter about Entre Rios and the country in general, which letter is but one tissue of prejudices and exaggeration We are glad to see that our active Argentine Consul, Mr. Philbs, in Liverpool, published a dignified and proper answer.

We learn with pleasure that the Government Answer has reported on the subject of the law vacation, and represented to the President the great inconvenience which such would cause the public. Owing to the crowded state of the courts it would be unmanageable to shut up the Cabildo for a month. We agree with the Attorney, and hold that so long as there exists such a list of law suits to be decided, no vacation can be even thought of.

By one of the oldest fore gn residents in this country we are informed that the Uruguay is at present lower than it has ever known to be for the last thirty years.

We have not heard what decision has been come to about Torny's sheep, which are still at Mr. Craig's place, Nueva Caledonia, which is the name Mr. Craig has given his estancia! it is one of the finest establishments of the kind in the province. As a ram-breeding estancia, it is probably one of the best known in all the Plata. Rams of different crosses of the most favourite classes are constantly on hand, and for sale by the popular proprietor. We have seen the wool of Mr. Craig's sheep, we may mention that he got 40 per cent. for his wool, when the average price was 30. We have a right to make these few remarks about 'Nueva Caledonia,' in order that our subscribers who may want good rams or sheep will know where to find them, and also because the proprietor is so ceaseless in his efforts to suppress crime that he deserves to be well supported.

We call attention to the important paper published in this day's issue, by order of Minister Rabaeze to the Zoological Society of Paris: it is long, but well worthy of perusal. We shall publish it in English when we have space.

The election question threatens to be a rather long affair. A petition has been sent in to the Government to quash the Concepcion Parish returns, and, it is said, will be granted.

The Oriental Minister to Paraguay Sor. Lapido, arrived from Ypora, and goes, we understand, to Montevideo.

We regret to say that the loss of the Oriental is confirmed. She has gone to pieces at the Corralito.

We call our readers' attention to the news we publish in another column from Galway. It will be found both interesting and amusing. Lord Leitrim evidently wishes to play a practical joke on the Lord Lieutenant, but like our friend De Bono, 'put his foot in it.'

MONT-VIDEAN NEWS.

The 'Comercio,' which is an evening paper, publishes the following true state of affairs on Monday evening, Nov 30:—

Nothwithstanding the repeated rumours circulated, the following is the true version:

Flores, as we all know, retired before Medina, and made for the pass of Olimer.

General Medina, with two bodies, followed close up, and cut him off from Montevideo.

Flores, being well mounted, was obliged to wheel back, and made for the pass of Casa de Piedra. He was followed, however, by Medina, who was on his heels

There has been no battle, as falsely and speculatively rumoured.

The dog killing season had set in, and the Chief's agents were preparing for a universal slaughter.

The Cholera has been greatly enlarged in now one of the largest papers in Montevideo

A great scarcity of fresh water is at present felt in Montevideo. Most of the digi es are dry. A charitable gentleman, Sor. Canosa, advises in the newspapers that the water from the cactus be used for the purpose. At the latter, it appears, the English Bank refused to permit the crowd to rush into the premises to get water, owing to fear of the establishment. The manager, however, appears to have acted with the greatest discretion, as although he has not given the water, he has given the rule, still, so far from refusing to allow its slightest to be used towards extinguishing the fire. He only requested notified the Chief of Police, placing all the water that was in it at his disposal.

Frederico de la Barra, late for public funeral a Montevideo to Buenos Ayres. We suppose that if Flores was killed J. O Gomez would do the same here, but as he is not so—

Marmol has had two interviews with the Pres dent, and sent heavy despatches to President Mitre. Argentine Metternich appears greatly annoyed that Marmol has been appointed over his head.

A fatal accident occurred to Sub-Lieutenant Palomeque. A party of young men were firing at a mark; by some misfortune he discharged the revolver unawares and shot himself.

The Flores party have completely left the neighbourhood of Mercedes. Everything is quiet, and the farmers are shearing.

The seca still continues and the grass is burned up.

Small pox is frightfully prevalent in Mercedes,

Two officers, who had arrived from Buenos Ayres to join Flores, have presented themselves to the authorities and taken sides with the Government. They are both Artillery officers of Buenos Ayres.

The port of Montevideo, it is said, will be shortly closed to Buenos Ayres. The Government has bought up all the fire arms and ammunition in Montevideo.

LATEST FROM PAYSANDU.

ALARMING INTELLIGENCE.

We read in the "Comercio" of Montevideo the following and news from Paysandu. There are 23 estancias, nearly all of which belong to foreigners, placed under embargo by one of Flores officers, Antonia da Rosa, who it is said is a criminal of the very worst cast, who has been imprisoned for murder and other crimes, but escaped to Brazil. This fellow has cut the throats of two unfortunate Argentines the other day, and one Oriental, dragging them out of their houses and cutting their throats from ear to ear in their own patios. Now this ruffian has thought fit to emb rgo several foreign estancias, threatening the owners with instant death if they allowed the Government to receive or take any ouxilio or supplies therefrom.

General Leandro Gomez has sent an officer with 70 men in pursuit of this villain, but we regret to say, as usual he cannot be caught.

The people in the neighbourhood are in the most constant alarm; wherever he goes he commits the most frightful crimes. It is to be hoped that the foreigners will club together and arrange accounts with him.

LATEST from the PROVINCES.

The 'Pavon' arrived yesterd y morning, bringing us our provincial exchanges, and the two last letters of our gossypium brother.

At latest dates from Rioja, the 'montonores' were all fled, and the Government soldiers scouring the whole country.

SALTA

It is rumored that a revolution has taken place in the province of Salta, but the Government party has triumphed, and arrested all the rebels.

SAN JUAN

Mr. Rickard had not yet arrived.

The province is very tranquil since the death of the Chacho. The 'riferos' had returned.

SAN LUIS

There is no new invasion of Indians. The 'Guardia Nacional' had been called out, but afterwards dismissed by order of Paunero

MENDOZA

The new Government is very liberal and popular. Governor Gonsales is trying to haul up party wounds i peace prevails, and the province is in a good state.

TUCUMAN

Everthing is quiet. The force which left with Allora is expected shortly to return.

CORDOVA

The great question of the day is the Paso business. The criminal lawsuit continues with the greatest despatch. Adolfo Ortiz, former Chief of Police, had been caught, after a great search, and put in prison. Every one was on the look out for Paso, but he could not be found. as it was said he had left Cordova, and it would not return. It is the opening of the dilig nce Ortiz was a prison heavily ironed.

ROSARIO

Sr. Rams and Koch had arrived.

The crops are suffering from the drought.

On Sunday last it rained heavily in Rosario and the neighbouring country. The negro soldier who broke his General had sent out to the frontier to fight the Indians, got most terribly cut up, and left for dead on the road. He was not found until the next day, when he was cut and should be buried by the Governor.

There is a rather unpleasant dispute going on at present between the custom house and the consignees, but we believe it will be amicably settled.

The 'Cocktails' still meet, and try to make themselves the jolly as possible, but Rosario is horribly dull.

WOOL MARKET ABUSES.

As above which has imperceptibly crept into the wool markets, and which is gradually on the increase, is the Liensos dodge i the rare excuted for each bales in the public weighs, and where each dish-clothe only weigh two, and frequently less. In former times the liensos used, were larger and of a better quality, now consisting usually of but three or very nearly three pounds; then, the barraqueros did not belong to the Stock Exchange, and could appear they have all become members, for the liensos they use have diminished to the size of the Clore Hotel dish cloths, and if they continue at the same rate for a few years more, I don't despair of seeing the liensos of wool that once required the strength of two men to toss from the scale into a cart, shrunken to the size of aunt Biddy's baby napkins.

Besides this pound of wool which they screw from the unfortunate farmer for every dish-cloth put into the scale, they exact an extra pound in every peso sello, although they take precious good care to have the scale in its most favorable position, so as to enable the wool to take a solar observation.

The barraqueros in justice have no claim to the selos produced by the lightness of the dish cloth, which is always well watched, with the ob ect of making it still lighter; they have no claim to the solar observation system, nor have they any claim to the musical plan of singing "Uno menos," but, as the majority of sheep-farmers are ficti ious, and, as we are reported to be a nation of barbarians, the barraqueros may think themselves justified in applying the screw, under a supposition that a barbarian shepherd must be sheepish enough to allow himself to be fleeced. If this is the conclusion they have come to, I must however unwillingly, undeceive them; although we may be sheepish enough to allow ourselves to be fleeced without grumbling, we are not quite sheepish enough to let it know how we are fleeced; if we have not openly rebelled, it is because we live in hopes that the Government will, sooner later, see that these and other wool market abuses be reformed. If we be ultimately disappointed in our expectations, we must only blame ourselves and our confiding disposition, but no, we cannot be eventually disappointed, for we have perfect reliance which with its circuit guilde the wool-broker in his true course, and show him his own danger if he persists in steering a shallow course.

DICK.

GALWAY FOR EVER!

The Lord Lieutenant in Galway.

Galway, Friday.—The rumour which I informed you of yesterday, regarding the refusal of accomodation to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant at Maam Hotel, and which has created such excitement in the town and county of Galway, is at last corroborated by the following letter from the Earl of Leitrim to Mr. King, proprietor of the Maam Hotel, which is, I believe, the property of his landlord. The letter was dated from the Railway Hotel:—

(Copy.)

"Galway, October 6, 1863.

"King—I will be obliged to you to fill the hotel with my tenants forthwith. Let every room be occupied immediately, and continue to be occupied; and any one refusing you will refuse admittance to Lord Carlisle and his party. If there should be the slightest difficulty in filling the hotel, the occupation of the rooms, my desire is that you will fill each room with the workmen; but you must not admit Lord Carlisle or his companions, the rooms should be occupied previous to his coming there. Any orders you may have received notwithstanding, I rely on your observing my wishes to the letter.—Yours faithfully,

"LEITRIM.

"P. S.—I will pay for the tenants using the rooms."

Mr. M'Donnell, Sub Inspector of the Maam district, had engaged the hotel for his Excellency, and every arrangement had been made for the occupation of it on Wednesday night last. It is rather an extraordinary thing that the Earl of Leitrim should attempt to prevent the Lord Lieutenant from receiving accomodation in a public hotel; but it is said that the noble land consistently refused to lend a room for him by the government of which his Excellency is the representative, on the occasion of his landship being shot at by a tenant on the town of Leitrim some time back. The person who endeavoured thus to take his life was sent to Ballinasloe Lunatic Asylum as a lunatic, which it was the opinion of all his friends fully deal. with. This treatme t of her majesty's representative in Ireland will not possibly be allowed to pass unnoticed by the Irish Executive or the government which he represents.—Saunders.

GALWAY HORSE SHOW.—THE VICEREGAL VISIT.—An incident which occurred in Galway on the departure of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant for Clifden has given rise to much amusement to the local correspondent of the Dublin papers to cast as much disgrace as possible upon our city, and to vilify even the Galway gentlemen who annually in Ireland are more remarkable for good mettle, Once paper, the Daily Express went so far as to attribute the restiveness of the animals to their Popish proprietors' creed. We wonder our contemporary does not urge upon Sir Robert Peel the necessity of establishing an evangelical mission to Irish quadrupeds! Seriously however, our malignant local scribes in the Dublin papers have endeavored to make a sensation paragraph for the metropolitan press. We have already stated that the restiveness of animals can be so easily gulled. We have already related that four horses were supplied to draw his Excellency's carriage to Clifden. When the coro horses became somewhat restive at starting, and had to be unyoked until the carriage drawn by the other two, reached the head of the town, when the restive horses were again put to, and worked admirably. The horses were supplied by Mr. Black, of Black's Hotel, and it is only due to that gentleman to say that his horses have been most unscrupulously misrepresented and traduced. There were but only one relay of horses, half way between Galway and Clifden. His Excellency and suit left Galway at eleven o'clock, arriving in Clifden to dine at five. There was but an hour's delay at the Halfway-house, so that a distance over 50 miles was travelled in 4½ hours. Next day the horses that had carried his Excellency party to Clifden, performed the journey from Clifden to Cong, a distance of 49 English miles, in less that six hours. It is only fair to state that the horses should be used from Clifden to Maam, but when Sub-Inspector M'Dermott met the Government party, and told his Excellency of Lord Leitrim's order to prevent his stopping for the night at Maam, the Galway postillions, knowing the mettle of their horses, assured his Excellency they could make the whole journey, and did so, gallopping through Maam at a rate which astonished the crowd who had assembled at the bidding of Lord Leitrim to keep out the Lord Lieutenant and his party We may mention that in the hurling of several persons, Mr. Hatchell complimented Mr. Black on the excellence of his horses. And when his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant saw the paragraphs in the Dublin papers, he called for the gentlemen in the Railway Hotel, and publicly thanked them for the satisfactory manner in which they had driven him through the country. Will our Dublin contemporaries, who have been the medium of maligning Galway and Galway horses, place those facts before the public?—Galway Vindicator.

Russian Fleet in New York.

Mr. J. B. Eades, Government contractor, entertained the officers of the Russian war vessels now in the harbour of New York, at a dinner last evening. General Hiram Walbridge, who was present, said that the object of the Czar in sending a fleet to New York was to have it in a position where, at a given signal, it could sweep the commerce of England and France from the seas. General Wallbridge is a corn merchant and a Militia General; he is a person of no authority, and only known in the community from having made himself conspicious in getting up union and contractors' leagues. Great popular sympathy is evinced towards the officers and men of the Russian fleet, which, it is reported, will remain at New York many months. A dinner is to be given over the Russian Admiral at the Metropolitan Hotel. The Admiral made a speech in which, referring to Russia, he expressed a hope that present circumstances would end peacefully; the Russians, however, were ready for any sacrifice, and as Moscow was burned, so they would not shrink from burning St. Petersburg, if necessary. If foreign nations were for peace, the Russian would never let it be honourable to them, and bless God for peace. The Admiral's speech produced a great sensation. Admiral Paulding also made a speech, in which he expressed a hope that whenever it became necessary for America to fight foreign enemies, Russians would be found shoulder to shoulder with Americans. The British regrets 'Nile' and immortality, and the French frights 'Turin' and Home, have served us in New York. Admiral Milne officially visited Mayor Opdyke. The Morning Post admitted enthusiastically to the Admiral a visit to the Master, and observed that the receipt on given to the Russians will not be taken out to the officers of any nation.

New York May never at any time contained so many vessels of war from foreign countries as at present. In addition to the Russian fleet of seven ships of the line there are French war ships and three British. Admiral Milne, on board the Nile, arrived yesterday, with two gunboats. A larger accession both of British and French vessels is expected.

Death of Lord Lyndhurst.

Lord Lyndhurst, after some weeks illness, departed this life at his London residence on Monday morning in the 92nd year of his age. We find the following sketch of his life in "Men of the Time":—

The Right Hon. John Singleton Copley, Lord Lyndhurst, F. R. S., D. C. L., is the only son of Mr. Copley, R. A., the celebrated painter, whose father emigrated from the county of Limerick to America, and settled at Boston, United States. The mother of Lord Lyndhurst was a Miss Clarke, who lived to see her son a second time Lord High Chancellor of England, and died in 1846. Lord Lyndhurst was born at Boston, United States May 2 at 1772. Having received his early education under the Rev. Mr. Horne, a private tutor of Oxford, he was entered in 1787 at Trinity College, Cambridge, where he took his B. A. degree in 1794 as Second Wrangler and Smith's Junior Mathematical Prizeman. His original destination was the Church; but, having been elected a fellow of his college in 17 7, he resolved to follow the law, and entered himself as a student at Lincoln's Inn.

During the first reformed Parliament Lord Lyndhurst took little active part in debate, except upon legal questions. He carried a bill for setting at rest the long litigation that had arisen out of the Thewlson will case, and in July, 1833, defeated Lord Brougham's motion for the establishment of local courts—a measure which, long since, has not only become law, but is in active operation. His second tenure of Chancellorship had in it nothing to distinguish it. Thrown into opposition on the return of Lord Melbourne to power in April, 1835, Lord Lyndhurst for some years took an active part in politics. In the July of that year he opposed the Municipal Corporations Reform Bill, into which he contrived to insert some amendments of his own, impatient at the policy of concessions adopted by Sir Robert Peel. Lord Lyndhurst for some years after his death had to insure the rejection in the Lords of those measures by which the Conservative party in the Lower House sought only to amend political defects in good time. Against the Catholics of Ireland his bordship was peculiarly keen; and his denunciation of them on the whole as "aliens in blood, in language, and in religion," has naturally rendered his name obnoxious to the inhabitants of the sister island—perhaps the more so because his grandfather was a native of Limerick. Nor will his "occasional Summum rise" in which he used to review at the close of every parliamentary session, in the most severe and caustic manner, the progress made in legislation by the Whig Government, be soon forgotten. In 1846 he finally retired from office. Since that time he has acted the part as an exalted and impartial critic of the measures brought forward by Liberals and Conservatives alike, though it must be owned that he has lent to Lord Derby a stronger support than was probable from his antecedents in office as the colleague of Canning and Sir Robert Peel."

LOCAL EVENTS.

THE URUGUAY PORTS.—The Montivedean Government, we hear, is about to put on the war steamer Artigas, to carry the mails to the Uruguay ports.

POST-OFFICE. — Several of our subscribers have drawn our attention to the fact, that in the Post-offices of Buenos Ayres, notices are still kept up of the sailing of the steamers for Pray Bonaria, Rosario, Ensenada, &c., which, in reality, no such thing exists. Please to draw these fictitious notices, Mr. Postdas.

THE BANK CLERKS "There is a regular revolution in the 'Casa de Moneda,' amongst the clerks; the cause of the disturbance is the small salaries paid to those gentlemen. It is stated that the junior clerk at the Bank of River Plate Bank, is better paid than the head Bank-keeper of the Provincial bank. The clerks ask for a rise of 2 per cent in their salaries.

QUILMES CHURCH.—This new church is fast approaching completion The worthy parish priest, Don Carlos Badan, is indefatigable in his exertions. We hope that the parishioners will assist him in his praiseworthy and arduous efforts.

ON CHANGE

December 2.

At the Bolsa to-day there was nothing doing. The potatoes have been more there as usual, but their thoughts were in the cotton fields of Corrientes and Entre Rios. It will seem almost incredible, yet it is a fact, only 62,400 patacones were sold. The settled conviction amongst the brokers is, that business is to be the order of the day, and no one has the courage to go in and win.

Patacones are like oysters, they open soft and easy in the morning, but shut stiff and hard towards evening. Patacones opened at 27.65, but closed very firm at 27.70.

In the liquidating department (not the cafe) things looked very steady, and the last sale effected before dinner was at 27.70.

The wool auction which we noticed on Tuesday was not the most success ful, although it is right to state that the wool offered for sale was with abroja and carretella, and of bad colour.

LEICHFORD'S WAX VESTAS.

R. Leichford & Co. hold themselves ready to supply the trade with their Wax Vestas, and having recently built an extensive Factory especially adapt ed to this peculiar manufacture they are now prepared to execute all the details which render their Vestas the best in the market. F. C. Calvert's Phenyline & Theroleum's Sheep Salve

The great reputation these specifics have acquired, in every part of this continent and Europe, as well as those where they have been applied, for the cure of the Scab in Sheep, and the destruction of the Parasites which infest the skin of animals, renders it unnecessary to enter into many details in order to establish their claims to the confidence of the farmer, and the public in general. It is sufficient to say that they have been used in the Royal Studs of England for many years, as well as those of the principal Nobility and Gentry, and have never been known to fail in the cure of the disease in any of its stages, however inveterate it may have become, or to prove injurious to the animal in any way whatever.

The Bank of Mauá & Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working class in that city a safe profitable depository for their savings.

he sums deposited in that most important institution are daily increasing and already reach a very large amount.

These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of Clerks, artisans, day laborers & servants of all classes & conditions. he are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a resource first in case of sickness, loss of employment or of spending them in the immoral gambling, in lotteries and other rivalities

October a "Savings Bank" at No. 103 calle Cangallo from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. on week days and on Sundays and holidays from 10 a. m. to 12 m. for the reception of the savings of he classes already mentioned.

No more Mortality for want of Water.

Sure wealth to Estancieros

By the Robert Apparatus,

Being notorious the immense injury occasioned by the scarcity of water during the long series that afflicts the camps of Buenos Ayres, I have determined to dedicate to the Estancieros an Apparatus at once simple and infallible for procuring as much water as they may require.

129 Bordalesas per hour (it seems fabulous) by a process with my apparatus, without fear of any time its going out of order.

This machine is worked by on horse, and in one day's work can give 240 Bordalesas: that is to say, sufficient water for 20,000 head of cattle.

By these figures can be calculated the immense advantages gained by its use.

Another advantage is the facility of putting it together and taking it to another place to be set to work again, it to any place where it may be necessary to use it, either for watering purposes or others.

GREAT MODIFICATION.

I have made an improvement in my Apparatus, applying a new system, which reduces the necessary force two-thirds, giving it at the same time more rapidity.

Those interested can see it at Calle Moreno, N. 816 (Hernando, Parish).

One sole inspection of the Apparatus will prove to them the superiority of it over any other.
